In Praise of Shadows, written by the well known Japanese novelist Tanizaki Jun'ichirō (1886-1965) in 1933, is a particularly charming and discursive rumination on the differences between Japanese (indeed, East Asian) and occidental aesthetics (among other matters).

In Praise of Shadows by Jun'ichirō Tanizaki

In Praise of Shadows is a 1933 book on Japanese aesthetics by Japanese writer Jun'Ichirō Tanizaki. Directed at a wide audience, it examines the intellectual foundations of the Japanese aesthetic tradition, contrasting them broadly with the foundations of Western thought. While he describes the West as highly industrialized, motivated by a capitalist system that places value on commodities and other tangibles, Tanizaki argues that Japanese society places value often on the negation of ...
