Cut across the corrugated grain of the cardboard to give you more flexible strips to form the helmet. Be careful using scissors or a utility knife when cutting cardboard as it is tougher to work with than thin paper. Make a ring to fit your head and then start gluing on strips to form the shape of the helmet.

Print out the templates on a desktop printer or CNC cutter. If you are desktop printing, print cut out the template parts. The two largest parts need to be taped together and reassembled before tracing onto cardboard. The templates go to the edges, so make sure the printer crops the edges rather than scales the print down.
