It is from the opening of Ruth attending the Prayers for the Outcast Dead, a service to remember the buried unknown souls buried, that we learn the reasons why Ruth became an archeologist..."To find out about how ordinary people lived their lives. We are their recorders..." Griffiths has created a wonderful assortment of characters.

“The Outcast Dead” was an enjoyable read but, sadly, not Ms. Griffiths best book. There were just too many characters and families with crossed lines to one another that made it difficult to follow. I like the series very much, but this needed to be pared back, perhaps to only one, or two story lines.

Forensic archaeologist Dr Ruth Galloway has excavated a body from the grounds of Norwich Castle, once a prison. The body may be that of Victorian murderess Jemima Green. Called Mother Hook for her claw-like hand, Jemima was hanged for the murder of five children. DCI Harry Nelson has no time for long-ago killers.

Synopsis. Bonanza's "The Outcast" portrays a woman, Leta Malvet (Susan Oliver), who is ostracized by the town of Virginia City for the criminal acts of her father and brother, whose boots are shown hanging before a lynch mob for the crimes of their wearers in the opening scene. Then the map burns, featuring the then-newly shot sequence of the Cartwrights galloping towards us at Big Bear Lake, California.
